George James Ltd are bringing in international speakers from their global business partner network who advise and provide practical assistance to European companies looking to do business in the Far East. They will provide an overview of the benefits, opportunities, and the challenges of doing business in these markets. The content will include:

Intercultural Communication: understanding the differences, and where they exist the similarities, in business practices, decision making and business behaviours

Strategy development: the importance of understanding the differences between the UK and Far Eastern markets and how for example the fast-evolving regulatory reforms in China are impacting the opportunity

The Regulatory environment : the opportunities for UK Companies

Price and Reimbursement: what prices are acceptable and how many could actually afford to pay?

Clinical Trials : the opportunities provided by large populations

Partnering: doing road shows and conducting due diligence

Local Manufacturing:

Process: Getting your company prepared for the adaptations you may need to do to be better positioned for business opportunities in the Far East

Managing expectations: Success requires a long-term vision, stakeholder commitment and patience
